The diagram illustrates the internal structure of a book, showing two main panels: the internal cover (left) and the internal endpaper (right). The entire layout is enclosed within a red rectangular border. Inside this, a green border defines the area for the two panels. Each panel is further outlined by a blue border. A vertical dashed pink line runs down the center, separating the two panels. The text 'INTERNA CAPA' is centered in the left panel, and 'INTERNA CONTRACAPA' is centered in the right panel.
